

The terrain we ski around Maniitsoq offers everything from steep couloirs to long, flat glaciers. We are still doing first descents every season.

To fully enjoy this exceptional experience, it's recommended that clients be physically fit and possess experience in backcountry skiing across diverse snow conditions. Nonetheless, we've successfully introduced intermediate skiers to the art of powder skiing. Greenland presents an ideal setting for learning, thanks to its expansive glaciers unmarked by previous ski tracks. Should you have any uncertainties or inquiries regarding your skiing proficiency, please don't hesitate to contact us.

Our operation is strategically situated to access a multitude of glacial descents that spill into three distinct fjords behind the island of Maniitsoq. By organizing three groups, each consisting of four clients and a guide, we efficiently distribute helicopter usage across the groups. This approach ensures our clients receive the utmost skiing value for their Euro.

For the past 15 years, we have been based 60 kilometers north of Maniitsoq, in the tiny village of Kangaamiut. Kangaamiut sits on a small island just south of the Arctic Circle. As we are here in mid-Spring, days are already long (18-20hours) and you will notice daylight increasing each day. Since 2024, we have based ourselves out of the hotel Maniitsoq. This won't be the raw cultural experience I've enjoyed all these years, but it will be a lot more comfy! Martin the chef creates the most divine food! And the view over the harbor watching the ships come and go while savoring his latest local dish is mesmerizing.

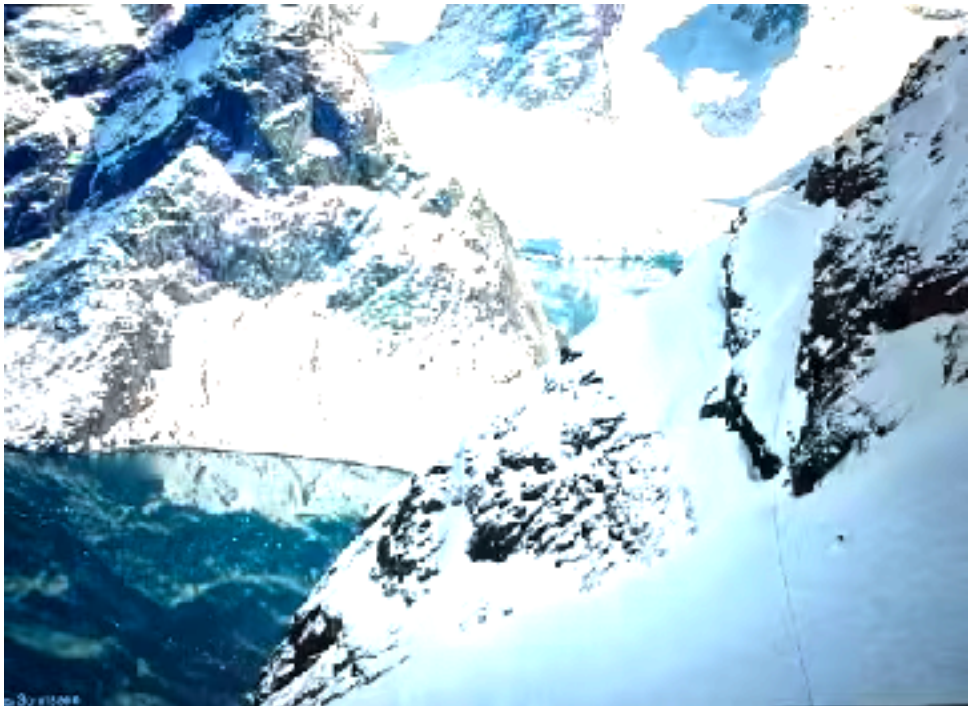

Air Greenland supply AeroSpatiale Squirrel (aka A Star/Ecureil) AS350 B3 helicopters equipped for Arctic flying (HF radio, inflatable skids, survival bags). These are operated with four guests in the rear seat and the guide flying up front in a single seat. Pilots have both heliski and Arctic experience. Each machine has sat phone and GPS. Flight following is via VHF radio to the Tower in Kangerlussuaq and Air Greenland heli-base in Nuuk. There is emergency back up from another Squirrel operating to the south of us and if required a 19 seat Sikorsky is one and a half hours away in Nuuk. All guides carry a sat phone.

Hotel Maniitsoq offers a unique and picturesque setting for its guests. It is located across the harbor, providing stunning views of the Davis Strait. This area is known for being frequented by whales during the summer months, and some unlucky whales in winter. The rooms are modern and well-equipped, most offering views of the archipelago and the Apussuit glacier on the mainland. The rooms have a shower and toilet, telephone, and a 32" flatscreen TV with free satellite channels. Guests can also enjoy free wifi throughout the hotel. We also have exclusive use of the hot tub, overlooking the harbor. The hotel's location in Maniitsoq, which means "the rugged place," allows us to access the greatest heli ski runs easily.

€15,225 includes everything* from Maniitsoq, our base, where we land from the mainland. We organize boats for our luggage, boats to get deep into the goods, boats for fishing, even boats for whaling! Your accommodation is all inclusive with three meals per day.

The helitime allowances are split on a pro rata basis between the group. As part of the package we have allocated 6 hours of helitime for each group flying. Additional heli hours are available at the cost of €5'500/hr.

The price is based on double occupancy. If you prefer single room there is a supplement of 650 euros.
